Sheila,

There's nothing wrong with this, as you did not ask for the upgrade. However, if the value of the upgrade exceeds $100, you should report it as a gift.

If you have any questions, please feel to contact me when you return from your vacation.

Thanks,

Robert

I am on vacation. I was upgraded to first class on my flight out of MIA. I was wearing my county id at the time and the desk agent asked if I worked for the county. We talked about that and other things. General small talk. Next thing I know, she calls the gate agent for an upgrade. Is there a problem with this? I think she was just being nice and I did not offer anything in return.
