I received a telephone call from Yolanda Aguilar, City Manager of West Miami, on July 19, 2010 and she had a question about whether the current mayor, Edward Muhina, could endorse a candidate for state office. Specifically, Mayor Muhina wanted to know whether he could provide an endorsement letter on city stationery and use his title. I advised Ms. Aguilar that the Mayor could endorse the candidate and use his title, but he could not use official city letterhead. Thus, an endorsement sent out on his private letterhead would be acceptable.
