I spoke to Jean Olin, Deputy City Attorney for Miami Beach, on January 25, 2006 and she asked about the city's Fleet Maintenance Director and whether he could sit on the board of Ford Motors. The city purchases vehicles for its fleet, some of them are Fords, but they are not purchased from Ford Motors directly. Since the Maintenance Director is not involved in the purchasing decisions and the vehicles are not purchased directly from the company, there is no conflict for him to remain on the board and hold the abovementioned position with Miami Beach.
