Hi Esther,

Sorry I haven't responder sooner, but yesterday was my first day back after vacation and it was quite hectic. I am assuming from your e-mail that you are identified as a corporate officer for incorporation purposes and that you do not play an active role in the company. If this is the case, then you do not need to list your spouse's janitorial company due to the fact that you, personally, derived no income from this source.

If you have any other questions, please do not hesitate to contact me at your convenience.

Thanks,

Robert Meyers

Subject: Question re: Financial Disclosure Importance: High

Hi Robert,

Hope you are doing well. I have a question regarding the financial disclosure. I am filling out the Source of Income Statement and don't know if I need to list my husband's janitorial company, ProClean Solutions, Inc. I am listed as the vice-president; however, I do not receive any income from the company. Given that, should I list it as a source of income? Please advise.

Thanks,
