Christina:

I have an opportunity to work on the Land Development Code for a City within Miami-Dade County. With my current position in the County I work on incorporation and annexation proposals, evaluating service delivery alternatives, budget proposals and dealing with the community at public hearings and MAC meetings. By trade I am a planner even though in my current capacity with the County I am a Budget Analyst. Is it permissible for me to contract with a municipality for outside employment to work on their land development code and potentially other planning related functions if the scope of services specifies the deliverables and they do not entail the evaluation of incorporation or annexation related proposals? Please advise.

Thank you for your assistance and have a wonderful holiday season.
